Terrible Experiences of Mrs. Henry Buell and Daughter Margaret Who Arrived in Newark Friday Night After Passing Through the Ice Fields of the Newfoundland Banks

Mrs. Henry Buell and daughter, Miss Margaret Buell reached Newark Friday evening after spending a year in Germany and brought back with her the first lucid details following the sinking of the Titanic and scenes prevailing after the disaster. Mrs. Buell's experience was most terrifying and at the same time most interesting, owing to the fact that their steamer the Rhein of the North German Lloyd line was the next boat following the Titanic and pursued exactly the same course as the ill-fated ship.

Their wireless apparatus was the first to inform the Mackay-Ben-nett the exact longitude and latitude where the bodies might be found and to-warn them.

Mrs. Buell was seen by an Advocate representative at the home of her father, Mr. W. N. Fulton in North Fifth street on Saturday morning and kindly consented to tell of her experiences," said Mrs. Buell, "and lences.

TENTH STREET PETITIONS ARE IN CIRCULATION

One Favors and One Opposes the Pro-posed Improvement by Street Paving and Curbing.

Petitions are being circulated among the residents of Tenth street, between Granville and Hoover, relative to the proposed improvement of the street by paving and curbing.
One petition urges the city coun-

The section of the street covered by the council's resolution passed at the last meeting, is but one square in length and it is claimed that the sentiment of the property owners is the improvement. None of these petitions has been tiled with the clerk, though such intormation has been given out. The quests by callers to see the petitions, a request with which he could not comply as he has not seen them. The petitions will probably be presented to council a week from Monday.

 The first case in American legal annals in which self confessed slay ers were proved innocent resulted from the dream of a man name Boorn ninety-three years ago tonight On April 27, 1819, Boorn dreamed that Louis Colvin, of Manchester, Vi who had disappeared six years previously, came to his bedside, declared that he (Colvin) had been murdered and that Stephen and Jesse Boorn nephews of the dreamer, committed the deed. Boorn informed the author tis of his ghostly visitation and his nephews were arrested. They con tessed the murder, telling the min ute details of how they had slain Colvin, and were tried, convicted and sentenced to be hanged. Shortly be fore the date set for the execution Colvin was found alive in New Jer sey. Whale Collins founded her novel, "The Dead Alive," on this strange case, which has since been duplicated a number of times by the confessions of innocent persons.

HEALTH IN SCHOOLS.

In another column we print a very suggestive letter on medical inspection of schools by Dr. Carr. His arguments public education is to teach people how to take care of their health. * * This responsibility builds up self-reliance and manhood and womanhood. It promotes the formation of high ideals. It is the real education that themselves and not upon the state; and gives notice to parents that their duty is to so raise their children that they will not prove a burden to the state: for as soon as their children get the notion that the public is to take care of their physical ailments, that soon they acquire the spirit of dependence that is altogether inconsistent with a true citizenship, which is the purpose of the public school to culti-

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

On Monday evening the groups of boys No. 4-6 and on Thursday evening the groups No. 3-7-8 were given an open house at the Y. M. C. A. There were about one hundred boys the two evenings. These are the boys who were faithful in attendance at the Bible Study Campaign which was conducted during the past ten weeks. The first evening the ladies of the Baptist church and the West End Methodist church served the supper and a talk was given by Mr. Nicholas. On Thursday evening the ladies of the Plymouth Congregational church and the Christian Union church had charge of the supper. Rev. Mr. Ward of the Central Church of Christ gave a talk to the boys. Both of these evenings from 6:00 to 8:30 were spent in playing games in the boy's room, athletic events in the gymnasium and in swimming contests. This closes the campaign for the boy's Sunday afternoon meetings which, in every way has been unusually successful. The Y. W. C. A. held a very interesting meeting in Taylor Hall Wednesday afternoon of this week. Mr. E. H. Wright entertained boys of his Sunday school class of the First Methodist church on Friday evening. Preparations were made for he summer work. The lunch counter, which was managed so successfully during the past four months has been closed for the summer. It will reopen, however, with enlarged capacity, early in the fall.

J. R. Holden who has been rooming in No. 8 in the dormitory left on Fri-Rev. H. G. Hurrell of Middletown. Vermont, is making his headquarters while in town at the dormitory. Mr. Inskeep of the Kresge store has taken room No. 18 for the summer

A banquet will be given to the winroom Tuesday night at 6:30. The winning teams are as follows: from the Intermediates the Vets-from the stu-4. Borrowers can repay in whole dents the Frogs and from the Juniors the Gnomes. There are twenty fellows in all who are eligible to the banquet. This is to be one of the big events of the year and will be a fiting close for the basket ball season. The following Y. M. C. A. boys assisted Mr. Honey at the banquet preparatory to the opening of the Hospital Campaign on Tuesday night: Elmer Schimmel, Hershel Stephan, Dale Warner, Wilfred Rawlings, Friend Kniseley, Russel Long, Philip Rhoades, Theodoric Neal, Gaylord Mercer and Paul Needham.

An accurate record has been kept of the attendance at the boy's Sunday afternoon meetings and the interesting facts are noted. From January 21st to April 14th there has been an attendance of 3801 boys, which make an average of 316 at each meeting. The smallest attendance was 200 boys March 31st while the highest attendance was 500 on March 10th. Two hundred and twenty-five boys were entertained during the past two weeks as a reward for perfect attendance.

One of Women's Queer Little Ways 'D like to know," said the Man, joining the group around the tea-table, "why it is a woman never dates her letters?" Women hate anything that has to do with figures," replied They never know the date," suggested another. "They dislike to think there is such a thing as time," volunteered a Sometimes, though it is quite rare, my wife will head her letters Monday, or Tuesday, or something like that," went on the Man. "But A. P. D., 436 Walnut street, Cincinas she usually forgets to mail them for several days or else gives them nati, Ohio. to somebody else who forgets to mail them, I never know just which Monday or Tuesday she means. But most of the time she appears to be serenely unconscious that there is such a thing in existence as a calendar or a date, and then she says, 'I'll be back in a couple of days. Meet me [Ohio State Journal, Sept. 28, 1911.] at the station at ten. You never can make out a postmark on a letter. The only thing about it that is clear is the year, which of course if highly important. And so I chase to the station for several mornings to try to find out which morning she really will be there, and then probably she are conclusive. One of the objects of

"I never have the faintest idea what date it is," said a woman meekly. "I, either," chorused the others. "The only date I know," said one meditatively, "is the first of the month, when the bills begin to come in. You always know the first of the month around our house." "Then again," said the Man, "why can't a woman carrer number trains the boy and girl to depend upon her pages when writing a letter, or else write straight ahead? Luckily, you can tell the first page. But you wouldn't be able to pick that out if she didn't have to begin with some form of salutation. But after that you're gone. You turn the letter over, and backward and forward, and upside down, and slantwise; but where to continue after the first page is as problematical as are there canals on Mars. If there is any connection in the thought—which usually there isn't—you can make a stab at it, and maybe get only two pages off. But usually you must just read A straight ahead, and then piece it together afterward in your mind.

"Once upon a time you read the first page, then the third, then the second and lastly the fourth. Just as I about got on to that order of procedure the wind changed; and, after beating about for quite awhile, I discovered the course ought to be first page, last page, then inside page across. I don't know what's brewing now. But I feel a change is coming. Whenever I see a man hunting around a letter, turning it over, and reading first here; and then there, I know what he is up against. Now why do women do it?"

The tea-table was silent. 'It seems so terribly prim," at last ventured one, "to write on the first page and then on the second, and so on. I think women hate to be really methodical. In some things they have to be; so when they get a chance, even in a little thing, to be absolutely free, they delight in being as whimsical as possible." "I think it is more convenient;" said another, "to write on the first page and then on the last, and then across/inside, than to be turning pages all the time."

"If they would only stick to that plan," said the Man, "It wouldn't matter." 'But it is so monotonous to do aithing always one way," suggested

"Women like a change." 'You bet they do," said a man joining the group, "change of air, change of scenery, change of husbands."

"And change in their purse," interjected the woman who had spoken about bills and the first of the month. "I suppose, then," said the Man with a sigh, "there's no hope for unvarying method of writing a letter." "None, whatever," chorused the group/about the tea-table.

Daddy's Bedtime

Three Little Kittens and a Dog Caretaker

tens He Loves ACK and Evelyn had just finished a glorious romp with Tabby and her cute little kittens.

Kittens that are well cared for are generally nice. Jack and Evelyn thought Tabby's kittens were the finest they had lever known.

"Kitty, a St. Louis cat, has a caretaker for her kittens," said daddy, "the oddest in the world for a cat, for Chubby, the pet fox terrier of the family, is Kitty's choice.

"Fox terriers are usually the deadly enemies of strange cats and can scarcely be made to live in peace and quiet with those of their own family. "With Chubby and Kitty it is very different. They have been brought up together and have had never had a spat worth mentioning. "Kitty is a handsome tortoise shell cat, and Chubby is as handsome a dog las you will find anywhere. He has always been plump; hence his name. "Not long ago Mrs. Kitty became the mother of three fine fat kittens, and Chubby's interest in the babies was amusing. "He danced and whimpered about the box in which the little ones were and showed very plainly that he was pleased as Punch. Kitty seemed tickled that he should admire her darlings and allowed him to kiss each of them, which he did in his funny way by licking them with his rough tongue. When the kittens squealed, for they did not like it a bit, Mother Kitty gently purred to them that Chubby was a very dear friend of hers and they must be polite "Chubby and Kitty had always been in the habit of taking their naps curled up together. It was a great deal more convenient now for Kitty to have Chubby take his nap with the kittens when she wished to take an airing. "Cats are sometimes jealous mothers, but Kitty is not. She will go away for hours, leaving Chubby to take care of her young ones and seeming to know perfectly well that he will not leave them until she comes back. "One day while they were still quite young one of the kittens climbed out of the box and, wandering off, went to sleep by itself in some out of the way corner. As soon as he missed it Chubby began to hunt for the runaway, whinling pitifully for it to come out of its hiding place. When he found it great was his joy, and very carefully he carried the squealing and kicking little creature back to the other kitties in the box.

"Whenever visitors come to the house Chubby fusses about until the kittens are shown to them, and then he looks up at them with eyes that say as plainly as words: •

1. Life is uncertain. It is a voyage across a trackless sea. One may meet fog or iceberg. Who knows? What an hour may bring the keenest watchman cannot tell. At sunset we may lie down in calm strength, before dawn all is over. What then?
(a) Commit yourself to Him who is the sovereign of the sea. He knows the way. The winds and the waves obey Him. There are forces you cannot meet without disaster. The last word in shipbuilding is help-less against the frozen, floating giant of the North. "Watch and pray, lest ye enter into temptation." There is an association, an influence, an atmosphere you must avoid. Don't shuffle. Pray, and prayer is simply living with God. Premonitions.

(b) Be careful of the little things. Keep your heart open to the great need of the world. Live with a little margin on the good side. Plan for an over plus in service and you will save life. Astor left his wife for a little and lost his chance. Live close to God and you will be ready when "deep calls to deep." Line upon line, here a little, there a little."

(c) Make escape an opportunity. What narrow escapes we have had. We have brushed the iceberg's glittering side and gasped; the skipper has taken the steam yacht, on a sodden night, through a dangerous channel, into safety. The owner in the morning looks out at the passage all awash with boiling surf and can hardly speak: "Did we—did we come through there in the dark?" Paul was saved on the Adriatic that he might preach at home. Life's es-capes are God's call to a better ser-

2. Life is relative. "No man liveth to himself" We stand or fall together. We are part of the city's life. Live nobly and the community has caught an inspiration. Respect the Sabbath and your followmen will Captain Smith went down with the ship. It is a law of the sea. Make it a law of the land that we go down togéther in service, in sacrifice, in suffering for the sake of man. "Women and children first," Another law of the sea. Make it a law of the heart that we play the man. Don't stand aloof when others fight. Stand by your mate.

The heart of man is kind. Love is the greatest thing in all the world. Love saves, saves itself, saves from littleness, weakness The invalids on their way to the Mediterranean forgot their sorrows in those of others. Gratitude and contentment have displaced the recital of fear and pain. New strength of soul has come. They lost a week in their plan but they gained a life.

Love has a hem to its garment, Which reaches the very dust; It can touch the stains

Of the streets and lanes

And what it can, it must.' 3. Life is precious. When the stress comes you will drop the jewel for the life line. Those frantic cries on that awful night show where the treasure is. Keep the emphasis. Cherish the best always. Consider the lilies. They have a glory which Solomon had not. God cares. Precious and the clouds break. Calamity comes. It is part of God's settled order in the world. Some days must be, not are, must be dreary. The sweetest song is born in anguish. The greatest salvation is the cross. (b) .Precious and God hears the The message comes on the invisible wings of prayer and the heart of God is attuned to that of His own.

Advice To Painters

Don't judge paint by the price. Judge it rather by it's efficiency; by the yards of surface covered and years of service rendered. To do this is to get the best results for your patrons. That's the way to develop your own business. We know, because we were once painters ourselves.

And because we were painters and know the needs of painters, we have learned to make the kind of paint that painters want-the kind that is practical; the kind a painter recognizes, with the first sweep of the brush, as the real goods.

Aurora Mixed Paint

is a painter's paint that appeals most to the most practical painters.

It is a pure lead and linseed oil paint reinforced by the right amount of inert pigments to give it the durability that will appeal to the builder who pays for the job.

It covers well, lasts long, looks good.

It is scientifically ground and the ingredients are so proportioned as to give the best results in this peculiar climate.

Aurora is a general house paint, but we make special paints for special uses-steamboat, railroad, wagon, carriage, structural iron paints, each peculiarly adapted for purposes for which it. is intended.

SPARTAN STAIN-a durable, beautiful, practical varnish stain for popular indoor use. Renews and lengthens the life of floors, doors, woodwork and furniture.

HEMARIETTA PAINT&COLOR®

Newark, O, April 26, 1912. To the Democratic Voter:

Mr. Hunter has written a PRI-VATE letter and has sent copies of it to hundreds of men, yourself among the number, unless you have been overlooked. I do not know the mames of all those he has honored with his private letter, and therefore I will reply to it with this public letter. Mr. Hunter says that he is run-

Nobody but the incumbent of an office claims it BELONGS to him. The people claim that the offices do not belong to the office holder, but that they belong to the people without any man having claim or her office. tremely undemocratic, now that the they belong to the people without any man having claim or lien on the title. Revolt from Boss rule has made the Democratic party progresv so. Progressive Democrats are determined to knock away the fetthe free use of the ballot. This is "Democratic Principle." Revolt in the past has established another the Constitutional Convention.

Another "Democratic principle" which is being supported by Demopeople mean by the maintenance of such principles to recover control of years. udicial offices and the servants they put into them, and to take away from boss politicians all sham claims and diens which they have hitherto claimed against the Iree use of the ballot by the people. OF HISTORY

WHY ILLINOISANS ARE

CALLED SUCKERS.

By A. W. MACY.

Two or three explanations of why the people of Illinois are called "Suckers" have been given, but probably the most tion with the lead mines at Galena. In the early settlement of the Mississippi valley marvelous stories were circulated concerning fortunes made at the mines, and these attracted to Galena and vicinity a great many of the Illinois farmers, especially from the lower portion of the state. It was customary for them, after putting in their spring crops, to ascend the Mississippi and labor at the mines until fall, and then return to gather their crops; thus imitating the fish called suckers, which ascend the river in spring to deposit their spawn, and return in the fall.

Hence such persons were called "Suckers," and the term became general in its application

to all the citizens of the state.
